Mrs. F. Wright, of Oelwein, Iowa, is another one of the million women who have been restored to health by Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

A Young New York Lady Tells of a Wonderful Cure:

"My trouble was with the ovaries; I am tall, and the doctor said I grew too fast for my strength. I suffered dreadfully from inflammation and doctored continually, but got no help.
I suffered from terrible dragging sensations with the most awful pains low down in the side and pains in the back, and the most agonizing headaches.
No one knows what I endured. Often I was sick to the stomach, and every little while I would be too sick to go to work, for three or four days; I work in a large store, and I suppose standing on my feet all day made me worse.
At the suggestion of a friend of my mother's I began to take Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it is simply wonderful. I felt better after the first two or three doses; it seemed as though a weight was taken off my shoulders; I continued its use until now I can truthfully say I am entirely cured. Young ladies who are always paying doctor's bills without getting any help as I did, ought to take your medicine. It costs so much less, and it is sure to cure them. — Yours truly, ADELAIDE FRANK, 174 St. Ann's Ave., New York City. — $5000 forfeit if original of above letter

THE LORDS AT WORK.

Amusing Custom in the Upper House of the English Parliament.

Commoners and educationists who watch the debates in the Upper House are amused, says the London Mail, by the easy-going methods of the peers and the smaller importance they set on their dignity than is the fashion of the other House. The Lord Chancellor, as President, takes part in debate as freely as any one else. He simply steps aside from the woolsack and becomes a debater, returns to his seat and resumes his functions as President. In committee he sits with the Government, wearing wig and gow, and leads in the discussion along with the Duke of Devonshire.

In the Commons the Speaker calls on the orator if two or more members rise. The Lords rule themselves; one gives way to another; or if that code of courtesy fail the House settles the precedence and may divide upon it.
The other night the Bishop of Hereford rose to speak; his neighbor and right reverend brother pulled him back onto the bench; the Bishop of Hereford thereupon restrained the reverend prelate in turn with a gentle hand and allowed Lord Tweedmouth to catch the ear of the House.

The woolsack is no more sacred than the cross-benches. Peers sit upon it and chat to the Lord Chancellor or to each other, and occasionally the small figure of Lord Halsbury is half hidden by Conservative and Liberal members, who use his official seat as a pleasant lounge half way between their benches and the door. In committee members sit beside the chairman at the table. Lord Rose-berry prefers the seat on the chair-man's left when he is about to speak.
In the House of Commons no member would dream of encroaching in such a manner on the Speaker or the chairman of committees. The Lords also permit messengers to pass freely up and down the floor, which would be a breach of privilege in the Commons.

The side of the house on which a peer sits is no sure indication of his views. Unionists still sit opposite the Government along with the Liberals.
Lord Halifax, the leader of the High Churchmen, whose views on the Education bill are the antithesis of Lord Spencer's sits behind the Liberal leader. So does Lord Camperdown, and from that place he takes the liberty of lecturing and criticizing the "Red Earl."

A singular survival is the fashion of the tellers who carry little wands as they count the members voting.
They stand inside the House and touch each peer or bishop on the shoulder with the cane as he enters from the lobby, and so count the strength of their side.

From the open galleries peeresses look down on the house, but it is doubtful if they hear much. The lords are not very clear speakers, and many of them are not audible in the public and press galleries.

THEIR ENGAGEMENT.

A certain young woman had been devoting all her evenings to entertaining a bashful admirer. He seemed to be deeply in love, but he evidently didn't care to propose.

One evening while he was calling another young gentleman rang the bell.
The pretty girl was embarrassed and looked to the bashful youth for help.
"Tell him you're engaged," the bashful one said.

Delighted, the girl made haste to answer. "But I don't want to tell him an untruth."

"Well, you tell him that and we'll fix it afterward," the bashful one stammered.

And before he went that night the wedding day was set.

MISS HELEN WHITMAN.

Miss Helen Whitman, 308 1/2 Grand Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:
"There is nothing like Peruna for that tired feeling, which gives you no ambition for work or play. After a prolonged illness about a year ago, I felt unable to regain my health, but four bottles of Peruna made a wonderful change and restored me to perfect health. As long as you keep your blood in good condition you are all right, and Peruna seems to fill the veins with pure healthful blood. I thoroughly endorse it."

—MISS HELEN WHITMAN.

Have you got nerves? Well, you ought to have nerves. But they ought to be strong nerves, good nerves. Does your hand tremble? You are living too fast.
Does your heart flutter at times? You had better call a halt. Americans live too fast.
They crowd too much into a single day.
They have too little leisure. The hospitals and insane asylums are filling up. The quiet, pastoral scenes of yore are becoming rare. It's time that we quit this sort of business.

How to Get Strong Nerves.
First, repair the injury already done to your nerves. The way to do this is to do exactly as did Mattie B. Curtis, Secretary of Legion of Loyal Women, Hotel Salem, Boston, Mass. She said in a recent letter:
"I suffered for over a year with general weakness and debility manifested in severe headache and backache. I took four bottles of Peruna, and for two months have been entirely free from these maladies."

A PHILANTHROPIC DREAM.
"I've thought of a splendid thing to

"No."

"Found a college?"

"No."

"No. I'm going to endow some coal mines and slaughter houses, to be conducted with consideration for the purchasing capacities of the public as well as for private profit."

boarders."—Chicago News.

Nervous Prostration.

Thousands of cases might be quoted in which Peruna has been used to rescue people from the perdition of deranged nerves, and put them on the good, solid foundation of health. The County Auditor of Erie County, New York, Hon. John W.
Neff, in a recent letter written at Buffalo, New York, stated: "I was persuaded by a friend to try a bottle of your great nerve tonic, Peruna, and the results were so satisfying that I am more than pleased to recommend it."

A Spring Tonic.

Almost everybody needs a tonic in the spring. Something to brace the nerves, invigorate the brain and cleanse the blood.
That Peruna will do this is beyond all question. Every one who has tried it has had the same experience as Mrs. D. W.
Timberlake, of Lynchburg, Va., who, in a recent letter, made use of the following words: "I always take a dose of Peruna after business hours, as it is a great thing for the nerves. There is no better spring tonic, and I have used about all of them."

Catarrh in Spring.

The spring is the best time to treat catarrh. Nature renews herself every spring.
The system is rejuvenated by spring weather. This renders medicines more effective. A short course of Peruna, assisted by the balmy air of spring, will cure old, stubborn cases of catarrh that have resisted treatment for years. Everybody should have a copy of Dr. Hartman's latest book on catarrh. Address The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Mrs. Lulu Larmer, Stoughton, Wis., says:

"For two years I suffered with nervous trouble and stomach disorders until it seemed that there was nothing to me but a bundle of nerves. I was very irritable, could not sleep, rest or compose myself, and was certainly unfit to take care of a household. I took nerve tonics and pills without benefit. When I began taking Peruna I grew steadily better, my nerves grew stronger, my rest was no longer fitful, and to-day I consider myself in perfect health and strength. My recovery was slow but sure, but I persevered and was rewarded by perfect health." Mrs. Lulu Larmer.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.
